Cadence . . .

Cadets marched through a transcending decade in cadence . . . setting a new pace, striding toward higher goals . . . each year building the image of Eisenhower . . . making a strong impression, not only on state, national and scholastic levels, but more important, upon each individual life.

CADENCE . . . Each Cadet marches to a different tempo, patterning his life to the cadence he hears . . . the rhythm of the band . . . challenge of debate . . . classes of his choice . . . friendships that he makes . . . experiences he elects . . . in his march in the ranks of the Ike Cadets.

Directors, Administrators And Cadets Strive To Make Eisenhower Outstanding

Administrative direction has produced many changes since the completion of the three million dollar Eisenhower High School building a decade ago. Built to house a junior and senior high school student body for a period of years, high enrollments forced the immediate erection of Wilson Junior High. Complete occupancy was made possible for Eisenhower the fall of 1961.

In order to provide a sports field for all schools of the district, a stadium, called Yakima Stadium with a 5,000-seating capacity rose north of the Eisenhower campus in 1962. Further expansion occurred in the area served by Yakima Public Schools with the acquisition of Castlevale and Broadway districts during April 1962 and July 1965 respectively.

Enrollment at Eisenhower has paralleled the growth of District 7 and doubled during the ten years increasing from a 650 to a 1302 student body, attending Yakima's second high school now known as the Eisenhower Cadets.

School Board: Rolla Goold, Assistant Superintendent; Robert Klavano, Assistant Superintendent; Milton Martin, Superintendent; Roy Brown, Ralph Sundquist, Paul Goode, Virginia Hislop, Charles O'Conner, Arthur Church, Secretary; Dr. Omar Scheidt, President of Yakima Valley College; Wesley Frazier, Director Student Personnel of Yakima Valley College.

Ike Administration Leads School Through 10th

A decade ago Eisenhower opened the doors to a new student body of 645 to share the present building with Wilson Junior High. A faculty of 39 instructed this group of entering students. Since 1957 Eisenhower has grown to a school of 1,302 students and a 54 member faculty with seven administrators.

Nineteen fifty-seven administrators consisted of Principal Ted J. Murphy, Vice Principal John Anderson, assisted by Nellie Ethridge and Bob Rogers, girls' and boys' counselors respectively. Edna Bailey served in the position of attendance counselor and registrar.

Principal Ted J. Murphy leaves his office to attend to one of his many administrative duties.

Mr. Nicholas, vice principal, looks over his calendar to check dates for extracurricular activities.

Mrs. Ethridge, girls' counselor, receives one of the many calls coming into her office.

Successful Year

Nineteen sixty-one witnessed the addition of a second vice-principal, Vernie Harrold, and the moving of the activity office and attendance office to the vacated administrative area on the west side. Bob Rogers moved to first vice-principal, and Richard Elliott replaced Keith Cabe as attendance counselor in 1964. Jack Nicholas replaced Mr. Harrold the same year with Owen Hurst taking his place as Boys' Counselor.

Administrative personnel increased in '66 by the addition of a Vocational Counselor, Gary Dietzen,—to complete a staff of seven in a 10 year cycle.

Vice Principal Bob Rogers cheerfully calls substitutes, directs curriculum changes and consults with faculty members.

Secretaries Mrs. Hessey, Mrs. Layfield and Mrs. Carr do the million and little tasks that keep the school running smoothly.

Mr. Hurst, boys' counselor advises senior boys on high school credits and graduation status.

Right: "You say you're sick?" Mr. Elliott's voice rings out questioningly.

Alan Campbell recalculates the finances again!

Eisenhower students under the leadership of President Norm Elder, Vice-President Ken Marble, Secretary Sherry Brooks, and Treasurer Alan Campbell spearheaded many successful projects. Nineteen 66 and 67 witnessed the installation of two new readerboards, a student information board in the mixing area and a large, lighted cadet near the stadium ... better organization of student parking and sophomore week ... a new victory flag ... a faculty lettermen's basketball game ... the offering of a variety of vocational field trips ... and bowling for interested students.

No honor or responsibility conferred by the school excels that represented by the National Honor Society. This organization represents the fundamental objectives held high in every institution of learning. Recognition of outstanding students encourages enthusiasm for high scholastic achievement and effective leadership. Members tapped for Honor Society represent the four cardinal principles of leadership, character, scholarship and service. Forty-three seniors and 21 juniors joined the 21 seniors, whose selection occurred the previous spring, to make up the Eisenhower chapter.

During the fall the Honor Society sponsored an annual book fair. Proceeds from this sale helped to provide the Honor Society scholarship fund. These scholarships were awarded to two members and two non-members of the Honor Society. Students selected for this honor represent the four cardinal principles of NHS. The Spring Banquet, held at the Holiday, concluded the year's activities.

In Cadence . . . Steps The Band

Performing at the Eisenhower Open House began a busy year for the orchestra. This group, under the direction of Mr. Schactler, had a full rehearsal schedule in preparation for two additional performances, a Thanksgiving Assembly and the Christmas program.

January found the orchestra hard at work on the music for "Funny Girl", the school musical. These performances required many hours of rehearsing.

In March three orchestra members, Karen Childress, Maxine Hance, and Steve Love, went to Missoula, Montana, to participate in the All-Northwest Orchestra.

Playing for Commencement, the orchestra completed the year's activities.

Awaiting the end of the second quarter, the band prepares for a half-time performance.

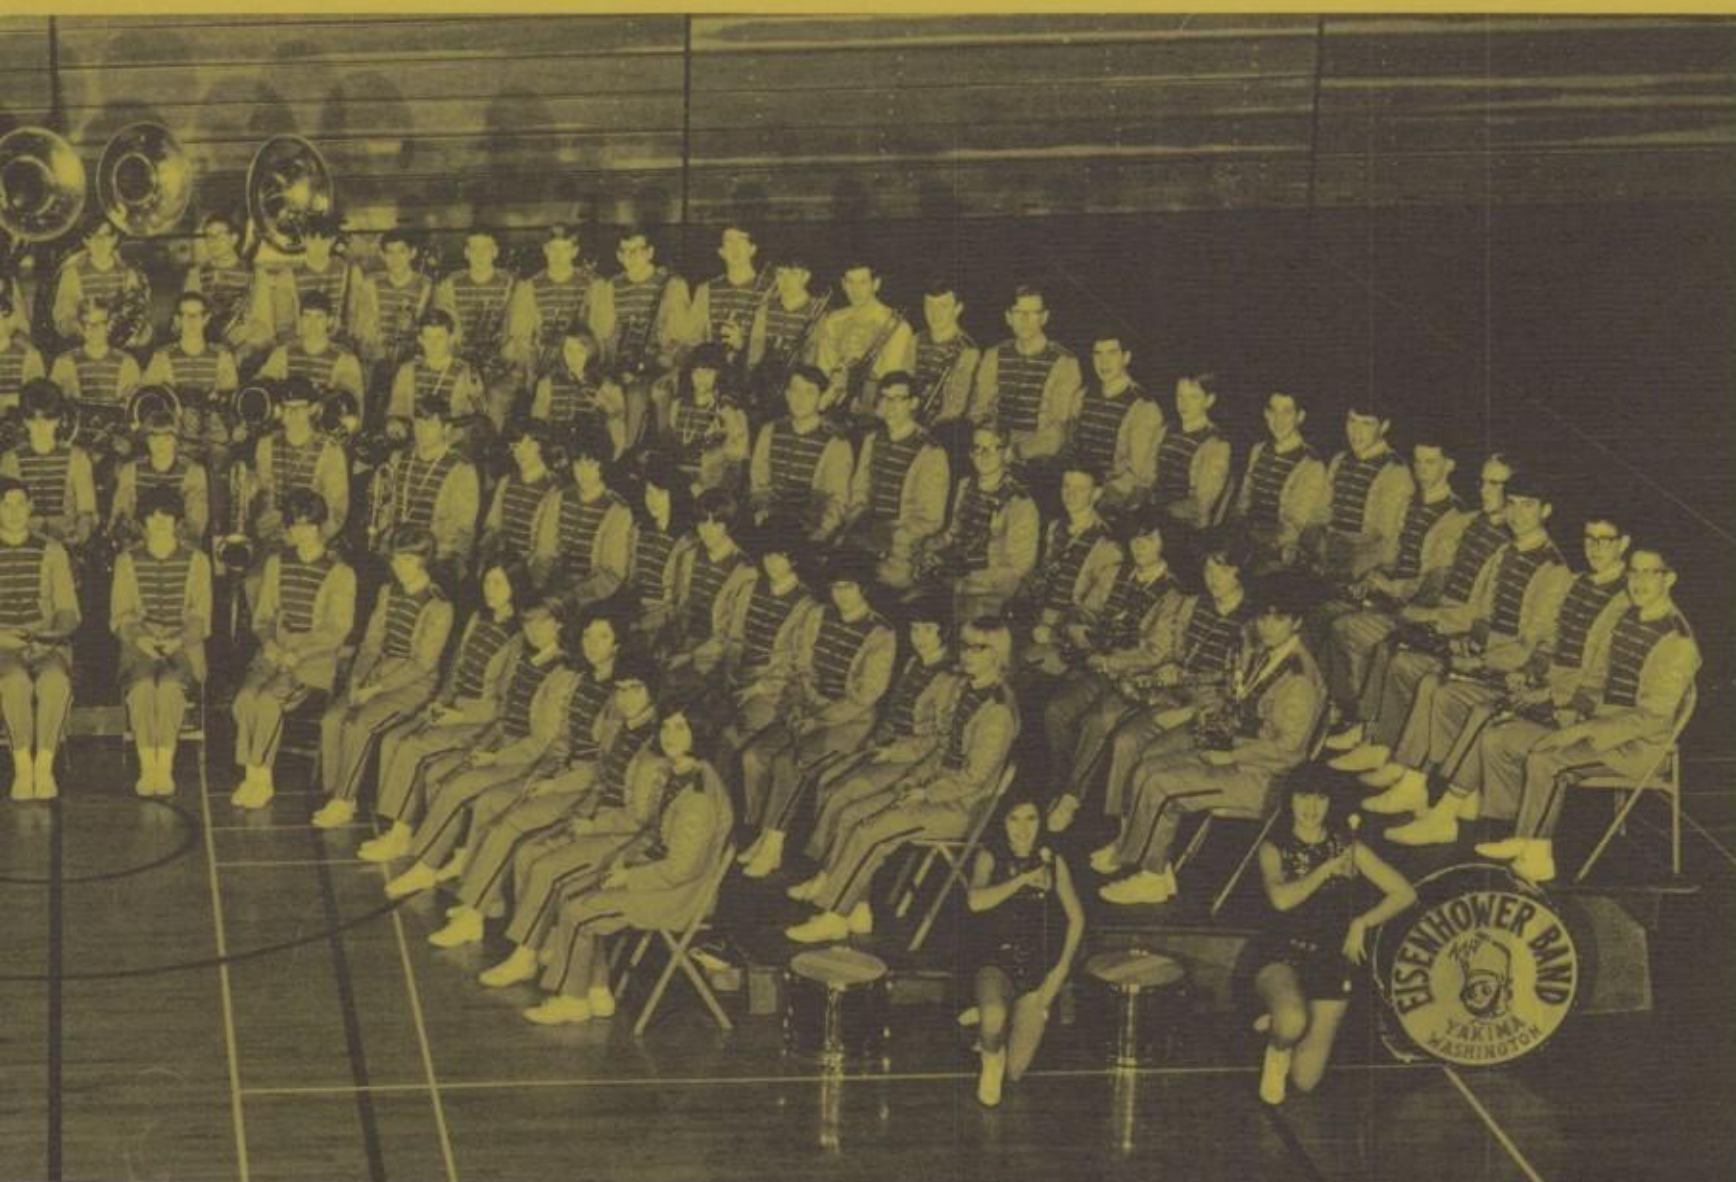

Three whistles . . . "two, three, lift" . . . and the Cadet Marching Band, directed by Mr. Schactler, stepped into its tenth year of performance. Starting a busy schedule in early September, the band marched in the Ellensburg Rodeo Parade, Wapato Harvest Parade, and opened the Central Washington State Fair with two concerts. Half-time routines, climaxed by the Ike-Davis football game, and the Veterans' Day Parade, highlighted fall activities.

With the coming of winter, the Cadet Band worked on concert performances. They played for the Eisenhower student body, Franklin Junior High, and presented a winter concert for the public. Activities continued with a special appearance at the National Security Seminar in February.

Two band members, Starr Horner and Fred Schactler, received the special honor of representing Eisenhower in the All-Northwest Band.

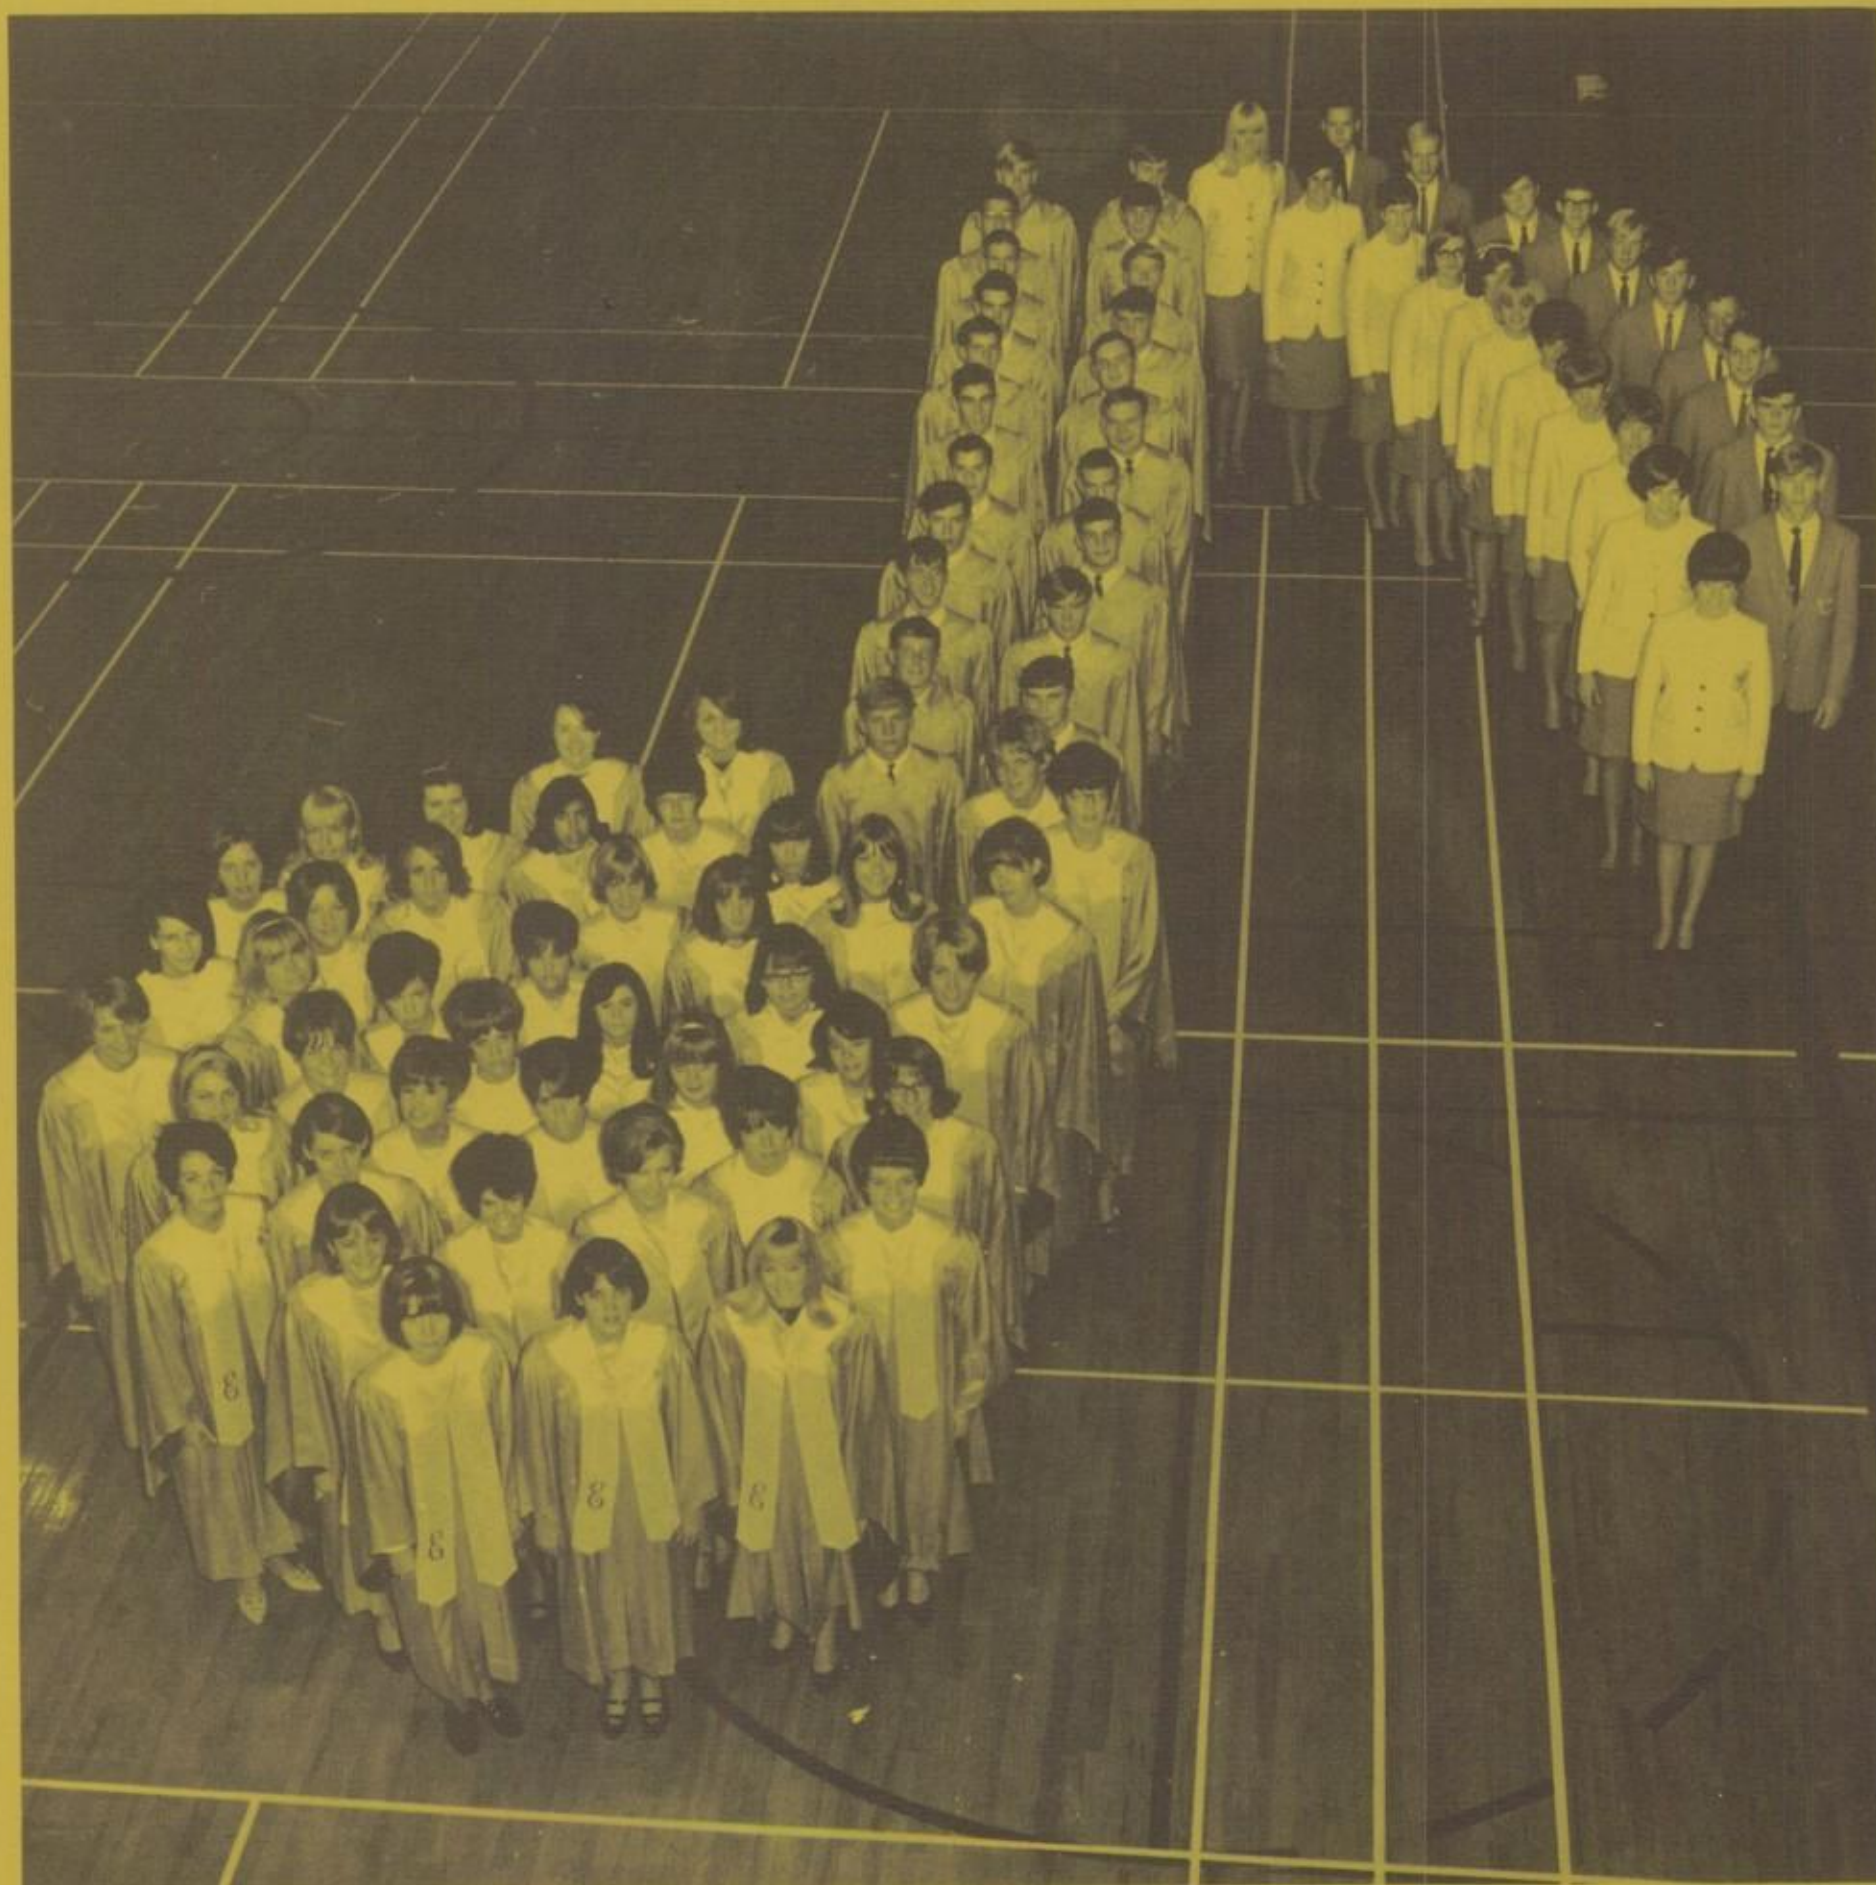

An All-City Music Festival and the Memorial Day Parade brought the band's activities to a conclusion.

Lancers Entertain The Community

"They make music wherever they go," can truthfully be said of Eisenhower's vocal music department. Under the direction of Mr. Durado, the combined choral groups presented a Fall Choral Concert to open the '66-'67 season. Eisenhower's annual Thanksgiving and Christmas programs, enhanced with group and individual vocal selections by the eighty-four member choir, delighted the student body.

The Lancers, a select singing group composed of twenty-one voices, entertained at numerous school assemblies and functions. This talented group also became a favorite form of entertainment for many community organizations and locally held state conventions.

Various assemblies and a Spring Concert, including girls' glee and men's chorus, added harmony to the year.

Captain Linda Rosenkranz and Lieutenant Kim Feitush led the twenty-nine members of the 1967 drill team. During the year the girls performed at both football and basketball games. Accompanied by the Eisenhower Cadet Band the Hi-Steppers marched at the Ellensburg Rodeo Parade, the Wapato Labor Day Parade and the Lilac Festival Parade in Spokane. Ike's drill team, for the second year, entered the state-wide contest in Everett, placing third in divisional competition and sixth in state. The Hi-Steppers sponsored the annual Tolo dance and hosted a work shop for valley schools in April.

CADENCE . . . Competition, with its scenes of combat and trials of mortal agony, lasts no more than a wink of an eye in the saga of man. Yet as men pass on, so do the day's heroes, but the dreams of men's athletic prowess never die for they are the expression of the times. Like the times, the Cadet in cadence strives forward in the competitive world of today.

Twenty-four Seniors Lead

Opening the 1966 football season, Eisenhower traveled to Oregon for a contest with Pendleton. Ike's Cadets lost a chance to break the Buc's two year winning streak when a holding penalty nullified Bob Cooper's sixty yard sprint for a TD, leaving Pendleton with a 13-7 victory.

In a non-league contest with Davis the following week, Ike allowed the Pirates to score three times, all on passes. A last touchdown in an 18-0 win came as the final gun sounded.

Bouncing back after two losses, the Cadets rolled over Evergreen of Vancouver, for a 32-0 victory. Dick Englund paved the way by tossing a 70 yard touchdown pass to Tom Amos on the opening play of the game.

Cadets

Eisenhower hosted Walla Walla's 1966 Big Eight Champions for the following Friday night thriller. Scoring on a long bomb with one minute left, the Blue Devils stole the victory from the Cadets 7-6.

On Ike's home field, Yakima Stadium, Eisenhower next met the Wenatchee Panthers. Despite dominating the entire game the Cadets lacked the scoring power needed to break the 7-7 tie.

Seven days later at Richland, Eisenhower crushed the Bombers 34-19. Cadet offense sparkled as they passed and ran to victory.

Eisenhower's fans next saw the Cadet's only successful match at home, as Ike piled up a 26-0 score over Kennewick.

Cadet gridders faced a fired up Moses Lake team the succeeding week. During the second quarter the Chiefs led 13-0, but Eisenhower came roaring back to win 26-13, placing the team in contention for the league championship.

Pasco took the wind out of Ike's sails handing the Cadets a 32-6 setback at the Tri-Cities. During the second half, our defense dug in and held the Bulldogs scoreless.

Arch-rivals Eisenhower and Davis clashed in Yakima's annual Super Bowl on November 10. A touchdown by Tom Amos gave Ike a 7-6 edge over the Pirates at the half. Davis drove for two additional TD's in the second half allowing them to retain the Skookum Jim Trophy.

Priming themselves mentally for the game, the Cadets huddle together.

In '66-'67 Season

With seven returning varsity players, the Eisenhower basketball team proved to be a strong contender in all games played. After an early season loss to Ellensburg, the Cadets bounced back to whip West Valley 83 to 67, and defeat Kennewick by a slim margin of 70 to 68. Highlights later in the season came in an overwhelming victory against Moses Lake, 87 to 50, and the defeat of Davis, 70 to 68, with two last second free throws by Steve Schroeder.

The Cadets had the honor and privilege to be among several Northwest teams competing in the Southwest Washington Classic held in Vancouver during Christmas Vacation. Ike placed fifth in the competition.

Two heart-breakers came in a high scoring duel with Richland, 80 to 90, and a turnover laden game with Pasco, 69 to 70. Ike ended the season with a 9 win, 10 loss record defeating all teams in the conference at least once with the exception of Richland, the "Big 8" champions. Ike terminated the year in fifth place in the conference losing to Kennewick in a closely fought tear jerker for the last Cadet game of the season.

“B” And “C” Squads Together Drop Only Four Games To Opponents

Ike's Junior Varsity set a pace for an outstanding season by winning eleven games before losing to Walla Walla 75 to 65. Eisenhower's "B" squad lost only three games with a mere 10 point spread in scores. Coach Bongers' team ended the season with a total of 16 wins and 3 losses.

Eisenhower's "C" squad completed a sensational season with only one loss. Ike defeated Davis 4 out of 5 games, topped by a 97 to 49 victory in the third contest. Coach Beetchenow's squad completed the season with an all time high of 14 wins.

New Wrestling Mat Sees Action In Last Few Matches

Eisenhower's wrestling cadets under coaches Daugherty and Dihel posted a 12-6-1 record with two varsities, the blue and the red, competing. The red varsity finished the season undefeated in varsity competition.

Eisenhower's long awaited new wrestling mat arrived in time to see use in a dual match against Moses Lake and later had the honor of being used at the state wrestling tournament.

This year's tournament team which consisted of five sophomores, three juniors, and four seniors placed third at sub-district and qualified seven wrestlers for the district tournament at Grandview.

Dick Duncan takes third at state with a new school 880 record of 1:54.2.

Celebrating an undefeated season Ike led off by defeating Snohomish 99 to 37. Eisenhower's cindermen won the Pasco and Wapato Invitionals by overwhelming margins. Ike spikers beat Ellensburg 86 to 54 in another dual meet and defeated Davis, Moses Lake, and Wenatchee in a quadrangular held in Moses Lake. Coach Holder's team burned up the track in winning the Big "8" Relays with a total of 124-1/2 points. Eisenhower won the Sub-Sub District against Davis by a score of 101 to 35. The next week, the Cadets traveled to Pasco and topped all contenders to take the Sub District meet with 125 against 109. As hosts Ike captured the District meet by overwhelming 16 other teams with a total of 103 points against the next highest contender's 64. In District Ike qualified 10 trackmen for the trip to State. At Pullman Bob Cooper turned in a fifth place in the 220-yard dash, Ike's mile-relay team collected a sixth place, and the 880-relay squad sprinted to a fourth place ranking the Cadets 11th in state competition.

Eisenhower's baseball team finished its tenth season and compiled a 20-8 record under the leadership of Curtis Christian as new head coach. Jumping off to a fast start, the Cadets won the first eight games. As league play began, the Cadet's string of victories temporarily came to an end. Coming back strong in the latter part of the season, the team finished fifth in the tough Big Eight Conference with a double victory over Davis highlighting the season.

Jim Thompson led the team with a batting average of .374. Mike Nelson had five home runs to lead the team in that department, while Terry Anderson topped the team in runs batted in with nineteen. Spencer Davis led in pitching with an 11-2 record for the season and a 1.31 earned run average.

Sophomores Lead The Second Year Of Varsity Golf

Varsity golf swung into a second season with two Invitational Tournaments. In Wenatchee they placed 3rd and in Kennewick they took 6th out of approximately 25 entrants. This year thirty-two boys turned out for the team, 19 sophomores, 7 juniors, and 6 seniors. Eleven players made the varsity team and played a challenging season. In league play Ike came up against opponents from Wenatchee, Sunnyside, Davis, Wapato, Kennewick, Naches, Highland, Selah, Pasco, and West Valley. This year's team ended the season with a 10 win 2 loss record placing first in league standing.

Mr. Durado advised Modern Music Master, a national honorary that annually chooses its members from lower classmen enrolled in vocal and instrumental music programs. To stimulate appreciation for good music, Tri-M sponsored this year's Ike Hilarities. Many members participated in the Hilarities as well as public concerts and the spring musical. In May, the group held their annual initiation picnic.

All boys attending Eisenhower became members of Boys' Federation. Each year this club assists Girls' League in securing Christmas trees to decorate the school, and in sponsoring the Mid-Winter Formal by furnishing manpower for the many hard tasks involved carrying out these projects.

Each year a junior boy, selected from this group, represents Eisenhower at Boys' State, a convention supported by the American Legion with Yakima's chapter sponsoring the Ike representative.

Junior Classical League encouraged among its members an interest and appreciation of the civilization, language and art of ancient Greece and Rome.

Eisenhower's JCL won first prize in the Quiz Bowl Contest at the Seattle Conference. The climax to the conference for the Ike delegation came with Bob LaBonde's election to the position of State Vice-President.

Other activities of the year included the Annual Slave Auction, an initiation of new members, and a rummage sale to send Bob LaBonde to Phoenix to attend the National JCL Convention in the summer. A Roman Banquet and annual spring picnic brought the year to a close.

"To further art in the school and community" constituted the goal for Eisenhower's Art Guild. Members worked through the year painting posters used for display in the school, setting up different art exhibits, and creating colorful and informative bulletin boards for the halls. Christmastime found the group busy painting store windows and collecting used Christmas cards for local hospitals. Several candy sales during the year helped finance a field trip to Seattle art galleries in April.

"Girls of the Month" an innovation at Ike this year, added another function to the long list of activities embodied in Girls' League for 1966-67. All clubs at Eisenhower nominated several active members as candidates for Girl of the Month. Girls' League then selected the recipients.

Officers, homeroom representatives, and the newly formed Girls' League Council headed activities such as the Mid-Winter Formal, the Mothers' Tea, and some money making projects. This club, boasting the second largest membership of any organization at Ike, was advised by Mrs. Ethridge.

Medical Careers Club afforded students a chance to discover career opportunities and learn some of the skills involved in medicine.

To broaden members' knowledge of this field, the club attended a lecture by Dr. Fram on the work of the Yakima Valley School for Retarded Children at Selah. MCC visited the Yakima Red Cross Center and toured Keith and Keith Funeral Home. Highlighting the spring, MCC visited the Science Open House held each year at the University of Washington.

Rooter buses to out-of-town games, the annual Easter lily sale, goal post decorating, and the Homecoming dance led the list of activities involving the Pep Club this past year. Program sales at regular season games and the district basketball tournament supported these functions. Officers and Pep Club cabinet members, Betty Drinkwater, and Chris Hutchings, srs., Debbie May and Sarah Winterringer, jrs., and Barb Lynch and Callie Wheat, soph., selected a new uniform for the Eisenhower Pep Club approved by the membership. Red blazers, crested with the school's coat of arms, cadet blue skirts, and white blouses complete the outfit. Miss Finney acted as advisor and chaperone on all bus trips.

Gales, the Girls' Athletic League of Eisenhower, provided a varied program of intramural sports for girls at Ike again this year. Under the leadership of President Sharon Davis and advisors Miss Finney and Mrs. Wagner, Gales held a basketball sports day at Eisenhower in January with ten schools attending and attended sports days at CWSC. Gales also worked with the Pep Club on the Easter lily sale.

Lettermen's Club consists of team members from varsity sports; football, basketball, wrestling, baseball, track, tennis, and golf, who gain entrance to the club upon receipt of a letter. This organization aims to promote greater understanding of the athlete's function in the school. White sweated Lettermen patrolled game areas and served as faculty assistants.

Activities sponsored included a spring Lettermen's Dance and several sports awards banquets. A bright blue wrestling mat centered with a red I-K-E arrived this year through the efforts of this group and advisor Mr. Frazier.

Development of agricultural leadership, cooperation and citizenship constitute the primary aim of the Future Farmers of America at Eisenhower advised by Mr. Heimgartner.

Taking part in agriculture contests made up the Year's activities. FFA attended two apple judging contests, one at Highland where members took third place, and one at Chelan where members took seventh. Ike's Future Farmers took part in four livestock judging contests taking first place at Okanogan, 42nd place at Yakima, ninth place at Sunnyside, and fifth at Othello. This group also attended three dairy judging contests at Vancouver, B.C. placing 20th, Portland placing 12th, and Sunnyside placing ninth. Most of the contests were attended by several hundred contestants.

Future Teachers of America stimulated students to explore various fields related to teaching and gave senior members actual teaching experience in Yakima elementary schools.

An initiation of new members inaugurated FTA'S 10th year. As the year progressed, members assisted teachers, held a doughnut sale to finance a retarded child at camp, and caroled at the Yakima Valley School during the Christmas holidays. An annual FTA banquet closed the year's activities of this group advised by Mrs. Marquard.

Thespians select members on a point basis for having participated in dramatic activities at Eisenhower. "Lights!" "Curtain!" "You're on!" could be called the passwords to a Thespian membership, a national dramatics honorary. This group attended the State Thespian Convention in Tacoma last fall, initiated new members in March, and was supervised in these activities by Mrs. Page.

"Too much white space." "Who's got the cropper?" "Triplicate in by Friday, avoid dull running heads, . . . " "Work on Saturday?" "Are you kidding? I quit!"

All these problems challenged the hard-working Reveille staff and required that extra effort that goes into producing a yearbook . . . determination, cooperation, and perserverance contributed by all staff members.

It took determination to get up at 5:30 and meet fellow staff members for the annual Yearbook Conference at the University of Washington, they made it, all but one.

It took cooperation for staff members to cancel a ski trip to White Pass for a Saturday workday.

It took perserverance to finish triplicates for deadlines, to get the staff photographer behind the lens at the right times, and to set the alarm on Saturday like every other School day.

This Year's Five Star Journal

Mr. Patterson and Marti Sevier, the editor, give their stamp of approval to a current issue of the Five Star Journal.

Eisenhower's newspaper, The Five Star Journal, clued students in on the news from sports events to the latest from the Brumlees. An added feature this year entitled, "Girl of the Month," honored a girl outstanding in some activity.

Martha Sevier, the editor, wrote many controversial editorials for the paper while Pete Plath supplied the Yakima Sun with articles publicizing Eisenhower's activities throughout the school year.

Under Mr. Patterson's supervision, the members of the journalism staff met daily during the fifth period to prepare stories and advertisements. The Five-Star arrived at fifth period classes for distribution to the students every three to four weeks.

Care For Cadets' Every Need

Roy Zerr

Celebrating the 20th anniversary of the National School Lunch Program, the theme of this year's observance was "School Lunch Serves the Nation." Established to protect the health and well-being of the nation's students, the National School Lunch Program demonstrates an outstanding example of local-state and federal cooperation. Seventy-five percent of Eisenhower's students benefit from this program. Three lunch hours have become necessary to serve our expanding student body.

vocational classes . . .

1. What will we do without study halls, Mike Rayburg?
2. "You take this end and I'll take the other," agree Terry Parish and Mike Weeks as they worm away at a worm lab in biology.
3. Terry Thunberg and Todd Tressler prepare for take-off in Eisenhower's language laboratory.
4. Bob Nicholls and Mike Thornton, assisted by Dick Tesh, do an experiment with images in physics lab.
5. Entranced by an English literature lecture, Henry Lagergren vigorously takes notes, we think.
6. Rich Ahlbrecht and Marty Penhallegon utilize their leisure moments.
7. Math-Science Resource Center provides Bill Huffman with an excellent place to study.

One decade has witnessed many changes and an expanded academic program, providing each student at Eisenhower with a variety of educational opportunities. Large group lectures, followed by small classroom discussions, have been experienced by many Eisenhower students. To obtain a greater variety of subject matter, the history, social studies, biology, and English departments employed a tri-mester program, rotating classes every twelve weeks. Increased emphasis on individual study, additional educational aids, and expanded resource centers have greatly improved the facilities for academic study for 1300 Cadets.

. . . Presented Through The Use Of Group

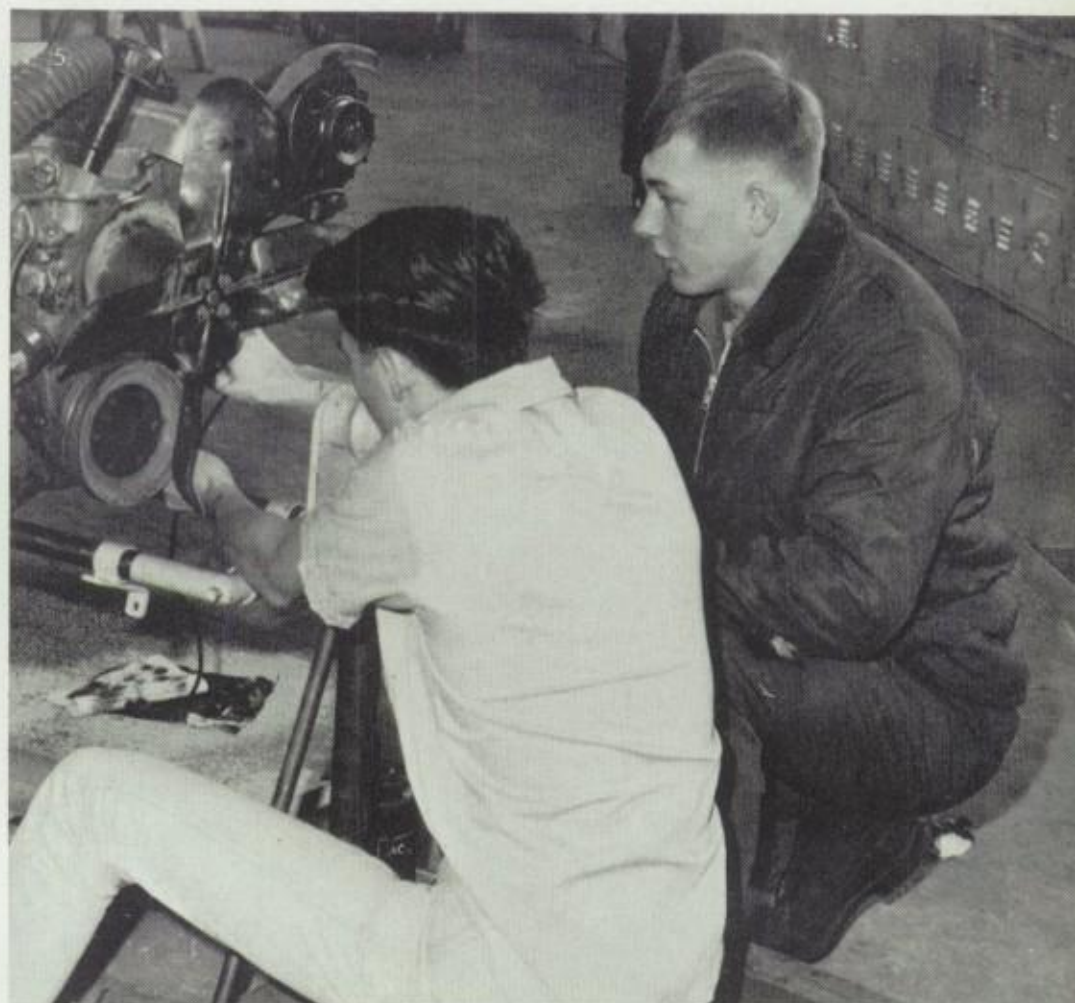

1. Andy Benoit operates a drill press in the auto shop.
2. Mark Isset eyes Elaine Ketterling during a physics lab.
3. With pen in hand, Kim Shrader utilizes his study hall period.
4. "I didn't know frosting would be so hard to make!" exclaim Sharon Follansbee and Joyce Olson during a chemistry lab.
5. Andy Benoit and Ron Bemis struggle to replace an extra part while working in the auto shop.
6. Mary Jo Chambers takes advantage of Eisenhower's Home Economics courses in clothing construction.
7. "Ready begin, 1,2; 2,2" . . . echoes from a physical education class during calisthenics.

Lectures And Educational Aids . . .

. . . Enriched By Classes In Art And Phy. Ed. . . .

1. This P.E. class has no turtles nor hairs either, do we Mr. Daugherty?
2. Cindy Hester utilizes the typing facilities in the Math-Science Resource Center.
3. Mr. Heimgardner helps answer questions in the agriculture class.
4. Jill Jefferies and Brent Joly make use of all available equipment in solving bookkeeping problems.
5. "I don't understand. My books just won't balance," groans Steve Allen in the bookkeeping class.
6. "You couldn't find the lettuce either if you were a hamster being analyzed by a mob of psychology students."
7. Ric Norgard pokes around during an art class.

Pageantry Sets The Stage For The Fall Play

Eisenhower moved into its tenth dramatic season with a new director and a delightful comedy. A cast of thirty-four, directed by Elizabeth Page, presented The Mouse That Roared in the Eisenhower Little Theater. The cast provided the student body with a free matinee before two public performances on November 3 and 5.

To better understand the plot of this satire on the United States' foreign policy, picture a microscopic country still living in the fourteenth century. A number of unusual circumstances forces this tiny kingdom to wage war on the United States. Tully Bascom, leader of the invasion forces, captures Dr. Koknitz, an eccentric professor, along with his discovery the Q-bomb. From the battle sight at Columbia University, the army returns victorious to Grand Fenwick.

Tully proposes they form an organization to protect the world from the "big three" and other aggressors, called the "tiny twenty". They threaten to use their new possession, the Q-bomb, as a peace weapon to prevent any future attempts at war.

Glorianna, the Duchess of Grand Fenwick, announces her engagement to Tully, the conquerer, as the curtain falls on the final court scene of this clever Broadway satire.

Even though the play broke no attendance records, it provided a large cast excellent dramatic experience and a pleasant two hours for all who attended.

Melissa Stevenson dabs a few last "grape stains" on her feet with a brush and purple paint.

Count Mountjoy sounds the air raid alarm.

Equipped with earphones, Fred Mildfelt and Ken Reiken listen for directions from below.

Mrs. Page shows her skill as a natural "born ham".

Dr. Koknitz works on his secret equation for the Q-bomb.

Tully Bascom and Will Tatum proudly display the flag of Grand Fenwick.

Tully Bascom and Glorianna discuss the impending war with the United States.

Ike Hilarities Includes Preview

A mountain ski lodge, warmed by a blazing fire, provided the setting for the 1967 IKE Hilarities, "Broadway Goes Snow." Talented Eisenhower students entertained audiences with a variety of après ski acts. Bob La Bonde emceed the program which included folk singing groups, the New Concord Concert Singers and the Canaan Singers, Senior "Can-Can" Girls, a Junior Girls' dance routine, the Yakimana Brass, several solo vocalists, and a sneak preview to the spring musical, "Funny Girl." Director Mrs. Elizabeth Page, the cast and the rest of the crew successfully created a humorous and entertaining show.

Below: Audience reaction proves to be varied at the student matinee.

The Lancers, a branch of the choir, add their talents to IKE Hilarities.

Of Funny Girl . . . Fanny Brice's

Life Story

Pictured In Song

Funny Girl, a successful Broadway show, drew capacity crowds to Eisenhower's Little Theater for four consecutive nights. Choir director, Jim Durado, produced and directed the play based on the early life of Fanny Brice, noted Broadway comedienne. Brenda Johnson starred as Fanny Brice supported by Rick Fairbrook as Nick Arnstein. The balance of the lead parts was carried by Les Asplund, Judi Clifford, Ron Olson and Marcia Hessey. Additional cast consisted of all Cadet Choir members. Four dance production numbers highlighted the two act play and familiar songs like "People" and "Music That Makes Me Dance" delighted the audiences. Eisenhower's orchestra, directed by Dick Schactler, expertly accompanied the cast.

Fanny's friends gather on Henry Street to congratulate her after a successful opening in the Ziegfield Follies.

Standing Three

Room Only For Nights At Hit Show

"I'm Private Schwartz from Rockaway ..."

"We taught her everything she knows."

Above: "Isn't this the height of nonchalance?"

Spring Play

The Song of Bernadette, presented by the Eisenhower drama department, culminated a year of three major dramatic productions. Bernadette Soubirous, a young French girl, visualized the Virgin Mary in a grotto near Lourdes. The play dramatized the story of this girl's life and the acceptance of her vision by the town's people. Members of the cast, Mrs. Page, the drama coach; and Mr. Kreiger and his stage crew worked weeks to present this drama to the student body and school patrons.

The cast in order of appearance included

Sister Vauzous	Gini Faller
Jeanne Abadie	Carol Alaimo
Bernadette Soubirous	Theresa Schnieder
Marie Soubirous	Valerie Clappison
Students	Becky Lugar, Karen Jones
	Ruth Ann Halford, Jan Cooper
Dean Peyramale	Ed Scheibner
Louise Soubirous	Bonnie Lochrie
Soubirous	Bob LaBonde
Croisine Bouhouhorts	Joyce Olson
Louis Bouriette	Gail Stevenson
Bernarde Casterot	Elaine Jones
Madame Sajou	Candy Barnett
Antoine Nicolau	Rob Taylor
Mayor Lacade	Blaine Gibson
Jacommet	Peter MacKintosh
Dr. Dozous	Brian Moinet
Celeste	Gwen Gerritson
Madame Pernet	Marti Sevier
Mother Josephine	Jeri Smith

Sister Vouzous questions Bernadette in the classroom at Lourdes.

Set In Nineteenth Century France

Friends and neighbors gather at the grotto to watch Bernadette's vision.

Louise and Marie Soubroux try to prevent Crosine from putting her baby in the spring.

Mayor Lacade and Dr. Dozous carry on a heated discussion of Bernadette's vision.

Dr. Dozous examines Louis's eyes at the grotto.

Pep Club Presents

King Jeff Rider and Queen Trudi Lewis

Highlighted by red, white and blue streamers, a football field set the mood for a colorful Homecoming dance. Tension rose in the air as U.S.E. President Norm Elder introduced Jeff Rider, Rick Fairbrook, Dick Duncan, Trudi Lewis, Mary Holder and Sherry Brooks as the candidates for king and queen. After crowning Trudi Lewis and Jeff Rider, Norm Elder presented Queen Trudi with one dozen red roses. The Homecoming royalty then danced to the music of the "TGIF" band.

Prince Rick Fairbrook and Princess Mary Holder

Prince Dick Duncan and Princess Sherry Brooks.

Football shaped programs and miniature pennants decorated the tables where couples relaxed while not dancing to favorites like "Moon River" and "Days of Wine and Roses". Eleven-thirty found everyone with a collection of balloons, pennants, programs, goalposts, and murals as souvenirs before they left with fond memories of Eisenhower's Homecoming 1966.

Homecoming U.S.A.

Classmates join Trudi and Jeff in the royal dance.

Mike McRae plays his guitar to accompany Brenda Johnson and Rick Fairbrook during an intermission number.

Karen Burd and Francy Kling appear pleased with the after dance plans suggested by Bruce Brines and Henry Lagergren.

Right: Princess Trudi becomes a queen as Norm Elder carefully places the symbol of royalty on her head while Sherry Brooks and Mary Holder share her moment.

Couples Enjoy An Evening Of Dancing In . . .

Blaine Gibson and Kathy Carlson "sit one out"

John Welch, Gail Price, and dates snoop in Santa's sleigh of Christmas gifts.

"Aaron, pull my skirt down!" whispers Gail through her teeth.

Ginny Dillon and Phil Glover relive a second childhood, and pose with Santa.

"Pop goes the weasel!" cries Craig Childress.

"Santa's Workshop" . . . Complete With Santa . . . Mr. Ho-Ho-Holder

Kim Rogers, Ginny Dillon, Phil Glover, and Scott Wight repair a derailed train.

Gayly decorated packages surrounded the large, flocked Christmas tree, in "Santa's Workshop," at Ike's annual Mid-Winter Formal sponsored by the Girls' League. A toy shoppe complete with a real-live Jack-in-the-Box, Craig Childress, and a charming elf, Christie Lindeman, provided one of the many pleasant diversions of the evening. Couples danced to the music of the Fred Brooks Band in an atmosphere of the season's festivities. A trio composed of Rick Fairbrook, Donna Martin, and Mike McRae, with soloist, Judy Clifford, and folk singers, Todd and Starla, entertained during intermission. Santa Claus (Mr. Holder, our jolly history instructor, well stuffed with pillows) and a model train added to the charm of "Santa's Workshop" for the 1967 formal.

High Steppers Stage

Ike High Steppers sponsored the 1967 Tolo themed "Happiness is . . ." and created the hilarious childhood world of Peanuts and his friends. A Seattle band, "The Lost Generation," provided music for the Cadet's annual "grubby dance." A game room supplied ping pong, poker, or the "Twister" for couples who tired of the strenuous dance-floor activities. Coronation of the Tolo King, Steve Schroeder by Drill Team Captain Linda Rosenkranz highlighted the evening. Uncrowned king candidates included Tim Rankin, Terry Anderson, Alan Cambell, and Bob Cooper.

Ellen Schafer and Kathy Carlson add the finishing touches to Charlie Brown and Lucy.

Tolo King, Steve Schroeder and his date, Kay Hartley ham it up.

Nancy Kitt and Karen Dickman literally tie themselves in knots.

“Happiness Is . . . ” 1967 Tolo

Charlie and Lucy survey the tolo activities.

Happiness is you and me . . . Jack Roberts and Connie Crocker . . . together.

Don Docktor steals his Tolo souvenir.

Fairyland Characterizes 1967 Jr. -Sr. Prom

That "dance of dances" sparkled under a starry sky and glittering wand of a picture princess.

Dave Dwinell and Bobby DiPietro serve punch and cookies from the gingerbread house.

The Yakimana Brass entertains Prom guests during intermission.

Once Upon A Time ... the Eisenhower cafeteria became a land of fairy tales for the 1967 Junior-Senior Prom. Entering through a giant storybook, guests spent the evening with Rapunzel, Jack and the Beanstalk, and the Goose that laid the golden egg. Between dances guests visited Hansel and Gretel in the gingerbread house and Cinderella's castle, complete with pumpkin coach.

The McAlpine Quartet provided the dance music while the Yakimana Brass entertained the couples during intermission. Soon the appointed hour of 11:30 came and all departed with memories of the "Once Upon A Time" Prom that will remain with them forever after.

"Oh Nargard, what are you doing?"

Bill Meyer and Phyllis McDonald leave Cinderella's Castle for the dance floor.

Couples watch as the Yakimana Brass entertain them with Herb Alpert songs.

CADENCE . . . Sophomores, juniors and seniors fall in step with Cadet life . . . from the challenge of a game of 5-square . . . to the exchange of gossip on the stair . . . from the attention captured by the cadence of a symphony . . . to the ecstatic happiness of an IKE over Davis victory . . . from a moment of solitary contemplation . . . to the eventual accomplishment of graduation . . . in Cadence the ranks of the Cadet march on Feast And Frolic . . .

Ingredients Of
Senior Luncheon And
All-Night Party

"Hey, I got three forks. How many do you have?"

Class officers, advisors, and guests preside at the Senior Luncheon held at the Chinook Hotel.

Sherry Stoneburner, Steve Goetz, and Gwen Scott await the championship volleyball game.

Senior boys enjoy midnight splash party in the "Y" pool.

Both boys and girls kept the high balls going.

Senior All-Night Party at the Y.M.C.A. proved to be real mixer!

Baccalaureate And Commencement

Class Motto:

To Strive . . .

To Seek . . .

To Find . . .

Mr. Don Frisbee speaks to the class of '67 on "Living in An Era of Change."

Graduates receive congratulations.

Departing seniors meet their parents outside.

Graduating seniors await further instructions.

Graduate Class of 1967

As "Pomp and Circumstance" begins, seniors file in.

Students listen attentively as Reverend Baker speaks on "The Now Generation" at Baccalaureate.

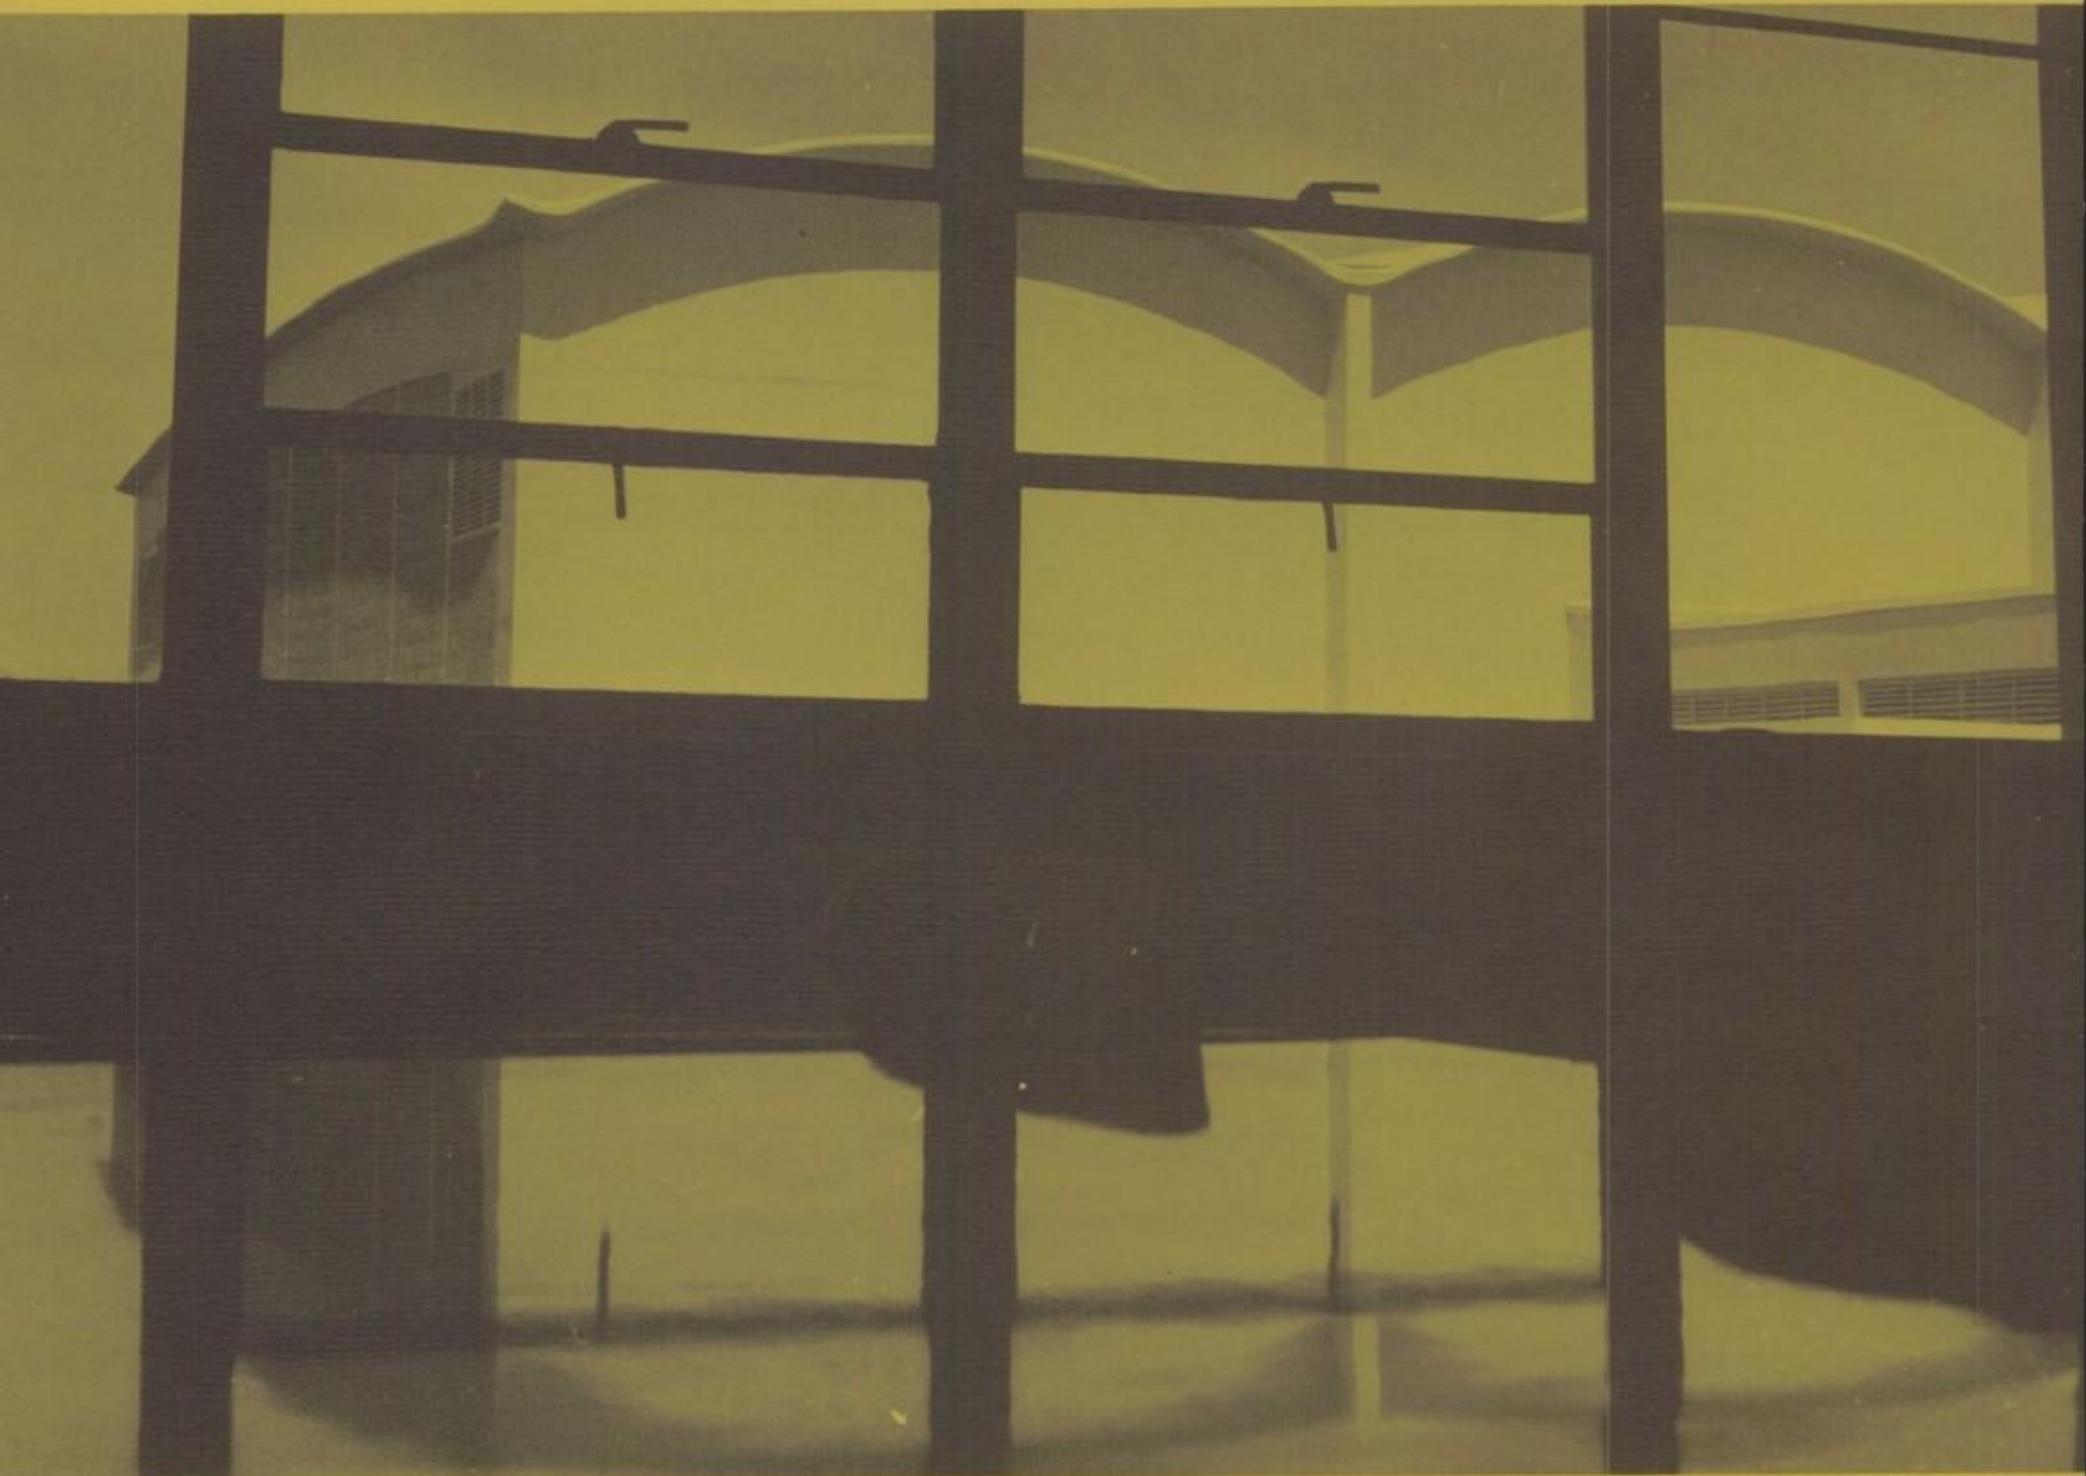

Students sit attentively during the ceremonies.

Hi, Well aren't you glad to be an Representative of the T. class. It should be interesting

CADENCE . . . Thus the conclusion of another year, the first decade, marked with the continuous vitality of the Eisenhower student body . . . innovations, tri-mester confusion, indoor and outdoor readerboards . . . individual experiences to remember . . . Sophomores look back to the first day—first year—of high school . . . Juniors look ahead to the long-awaited Senior year . . . and Seniors step into the future—with some regret but high ambition . . . the never-ending cadence of life continues . . .
